A. B. Hooley's Father Imported His First Love Back in Late Sixties.

ONE DOG FOR EACH YEAR

Collection Numbers Half Hundred, Including Dozen Proud Champions.

Time cannot change, fashion cannot sway A. B. Hooley's taste in dogs. And one is quite inclined to sanction his choice when he is introduced to the inmates of the Meadowview Kennels. Big, noble look-ing English setters of orange, lemon and blue beltons are Mr. Hooley's friends and he has made the breeding of them a life-he has made the breeding of them a life-long study, hence their perfection.

Along in the late '60s, as the story books say, when Mr. Hooley was a very little boy, his father, who was a well known Eng-tlish merchant in New York, had several splendid setters shipped over from England.

That settled the question and gave the embryonic fancier his standard.

At the present time Mr. Howley's dogs.

At the present time Mr. Hooley's dogs are unanimously conceded to be the finest collection on either side of the Atlantic and his kennels house between forty and fifty at all times. Of these a dozen are champions full fledged and as many more are taking the royal road to the title.

Mr. Hooley's kennels are situated on beautiful rolling meadows on the outskirts of Plainfield, which allows the inhabitants plenty of exercising room besides being pleasing to the canine eye. The best part of it all is that these dogs are not purely ornamental, for although they are won-derful "benchers" they are also real workers and seem to have no leaning toward a lily of the field sort of life.

Champion Meadowview Rock, a lemon belton, champion Countess, champion Meadowview Bob Roy, orange belton, and champion Meadowview Yale, a blue belton, each have had the distinctive honor of being declared by prominent judges the best dog in the show over all other breeds. Fine big champion Meadow Rock has had his picture in the most prominent dog paper in France as a perfect type of English paper in France as a perfect type of English setter. This is indeed an honor to confer on a little Yankee dog, when so many specimens might have been selected from the land of their origin.

Champion Meadowriew Rock has twice won the cup for the best English setter dog at the New York show and Wyoming Valley Maybelle, a beautiful blue Belton, has duplicated the performance of her lord and master on two occasions. Meadowview Bob Roy, the New York winner this year, has won in the winners' classes at Plainfield. Brighton Beach, Allentown, Long Branch and Gwynnedd Valley. At Ambler he added to the trophies secured for the best sporting dog and the best dog in the show.

Deodora tountess has won the trophy for the best at two of the prominent shows and Yale added to his string at the New Jersey Kennel tlub show in the shape of a beautiful sliver trophy for the best in the New Jersey Kennel tlub show in the shape of a beautiful sliver trophy for the best in the New Jersey Kennel tlub show in the shape of a beautiful sliver trophy for the best in the New Jersey Kennel tlub show in the shape of a beautiful sliver trophy for the best in the New Jersey Kennel tlub show in the shape of a beautiful sliver trophy for the best in the New Jersey Kennel tlub show in the shape of a beautiful sliver trophy for the best of the perfect of the best dog or bitch, for the best America offers to members only medals for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best American bred and for the best dog or bitch, for the best dog or won the cup for the best English setter dog and a host of others.

Chers of Mr. Hooley's favorites are Lady Mallwyd. Champion Meadowview Beatrice. Meadowview Lady Frances, Deodora Bobs, Meadowview Lady Bess and Champion Meadowview Vassar, which is a litter sister of Champion Yale.

In the last four years Mr. Hooley's setters have won more than 150 big challenges cups and trophies of great value, besides innumerable medals and special prizes and hundreds of blue rosettes.

One of the most beautiful of all Mr. Hooley's setters is comparatively unknown. This is Meadowview Royalist, a splendid blue belton which has lived a rather quiet life and has been little before the public. Royalist was shown at the recent Mineola Show and was judged by Mr. Reeves, a noted English judge, who eulogized him in print when he returned to England. Mr. Reeves believes that he has never seen a more perfect type of the English setter than this American bred dog. Royalist lives with his father and mother, both owned by Mr.

Starts With Poms, Spreads Out.

Leo Cohn, proprietor of the far famed Tuxedo Pomeranian Kennels, has leased the premises at 124 West Sixty-fifth street where he will include in his kennels dogs of all breeds instead of devoting himself to the Poms as he has done. Albert Freith, owner of the celebrated Pomeranian Little Pebble, will be associated with Mr. Cohn in a managerial capacity.

Delmont Sells Beechers Brook.

Alf Delmont, who owns the Leeds Ken nels at Devon, Pa., has just sold the Scottish terrier champion Beschers Brook to R. A. Ross, Ville St. Pierre, Que., Canada. Beechers Brook is one of the very best Scottles in the country and is indeed an acquisition to the kennels of the Canadian fancier.

Death Nips Huyler's Plan.

John Seys Huyler will not hold an Aire ale puppy show at his farm in Rye, N. Y., this autumn as he had planned to do earlie in the season. Owing to a death in the family he has been obliged to abandon the idea.

It is next to impossible to obtain any of the Meadowview dogs unless Mr. Hooley happens to take a fancy to you and makes you a present of one. During the twenty five years that the kennels have been established not more than a half dozen of the inhabitants have ever been sold.

At the big shows no exhibit attracts so much attention as the quarter of a mile of benches which hold the Meadowview setters shown as they always are in the most beautiful coat and the pink of condition. Mr. Hooley is a member of the Field Trial Association and a director in the American Kennel Club. He is also a member of the Long Island, the Plainfield, the Allentown and the new Rumson Kennel clubs. Besides all this he is one of the firm of E. S. Hooley & Co., but those who know him best know that he would forsake his bulls and his bears any time for his beloved English setters.
